Description
Hi!
I noticed that the directory selection box I get when first starting doomsday 2.0RC only allows to select WAD files, but directories are not clickable, therefore I cannot get to the directory where I want to store my WAD files. This seems to happen only with the box I get initially starting doomsday with no WAD or configuration at all. I use Fedora25 with default GNOME3 on Xorg.
Thanks!!

I have addressed this by not limiting the file dialog to WAD files. Now in GNOME it correctly says the filter is "Directories" when one needs to locate a WAD folder.
