

Doomsday Engine - Bug #301

Developer/Custom options field

Description Currently the custom options field under the developer settings tab in Snowberry has it's contents enclosed in quotes "" before being added to the command-line. As a consequence any command-line options which take multiple paramaters are not working via this. The contents of this field need to be either added to the command-line AS IS or we need to enhance Doomsday so that multiple command-line options surrounded by quotes are supported. Labels: Snowberry
